I Just Drove By

I always go the other way, my car drove me down today,
to a little house, on the older side of town.
Back when things were never hard, I used to play there in that yard.
And I just drove by, to see if things had changed.

Cokes were just a nickel then, and across the street at the 5 and 10.
A lot of things were cheap and square and straight.
And the life that we had not have been, it was one we loved believing in.
And I just drove by, to see if things had changed.

I wondered now, if love is still the way it was back then.
I need to know, that life is still, a place worth living in.

There it is just like it was, a house where there was always love.
I just drove by, to see if things had changed.

In a world that's seen its better days,
it's good to know, some things remain the same.
Though standing still, is not time's way.

Take to heart while in it's spring,
that love is just a fragile thing.
Oh I just drove by, to see if things had changed.

I wondered now, if love is still the way it was back then.
I need to know, that life is still, a place worth living in.

There it is just like it was, a house where there was always love.
I just drove by, to see if things had changed.

I just drove by, to see if things had changed.
