he sees the flames in her tears sketching on her skin and he knows that it's come to an end and it's no point pretending it's not and it's a long way down a long way down from here and it's a long way down a long way down from here so she smashes the glass and there's blood on her hands and her skirt there's the wind and a sun fresh air in her lungs once again and it's a long way down a long way down from here and it's a long way down a long way down from here so he closes his eyes and thinks maybe I'll be surprised if I do I just might fall into another realm and make a new home there with you and it's a long way down a long way down from here and it's a long way down a long way down from here it's best not to think about it just put your arms around me it's best not to think about it just put your arms around me it's best not to think about it just put your arms around me oh La-La-La-La-La-La...La-La-La-La...La-La-La-La-La-La

La-La-La-La
